Commentary (2005)

Yellow Target. This is a cautionary Yellow because of the tight schedule to administer the Employee Attitude Survey (EAS) survey, calculate the results, and determine if there is an increase in the scores that meet the performance target. The EAS 2006 survey is expected to be administered in time to calculate the FY 06 EAS performance target, but the current schedule has virtually no room for slippage. The Internet Services Contract was awarded and will be used to host the one-line version of the EAS 2006 at a secure external site. FAA EAS Corporate actions continue, including: Center for Early Dispute Resolution (CEDR) focus groups influencing new and revised conflict items for EAS 2006; posting of the Managers' Desk Guide for performance management on the FAA Employee website; and revising the FAA Focus electronic newsletter.
